Subject: THE VEGETABLE OIL PRODUCTS CONTROL (AMENDMENT) ORDER, 1975 AND THE VEGETABLE OIL PRODUCTS (STANDARDS OF QUALITY) ORDER, 1975 FORWARDING OF.

In continuation to this Directorate Circular No. 9-VP (1)/74, dated 20-1-1975, I am directed to enclose herewith copies of the Vegetable Oil Products Control (Amendment) Order, 1975 issued under G.S.R. 309 (E), dated 30-5-1975 and also the Vegetable Oil Products (Standards of Quality) Order, 1975 issued under G.S.R.310 (E), dated 30-5-1975, in supersession of this Ministry's notification No. G.S.R.87(E), dated 19-2-1972—for your information and guidance.

2. As is well-known, a number of factories have taken to the manufacture of margarine in a big way. Further, they are found to be purchasing mustard oil, on the ostensible plea of using this oil in the manufacture of margarine. Thus the manufacture of margarine is offering an easy way for vanaspati factories to outwit the restrictions imposed by Government on the usage of raw oils in the manufacture of vanaspati. In order to remedy the lacunae, bakery shortening and margarine have been brought under the purview of the Vegetable Oil Products Control Order, prescribing the specifications for both thereunder in such a way as to align the requirements regarding usage of oils in both the products with those specified for vanaspati.

3. The main changes in (i) the Vegetable Oil Products Control (Amendment) Order, 1975 and (ii) quality standards and other requirements for vanaspati, bakery shortening and margarine made under the new Order, which takes effect from 30th May, 1975, are highlighted below for your convenience:—

- (1) Definition of Vegetable Oil Products has been amplified to include all hydrogenated products, i.e., any vegetable oil subjected to a process of hydrogenation in any form, or an admixture thereof with any other substance for edible purpose will come under the purview of the Vegetable Oil Products (Control) Order, 1947.
- (2) Three Schedules detailing the definition and quality standards requirements of vanaspati, bakery shortening and margarine along with appendix laying down procedure for (i) determination of melting point by the capillary slip method and (ii) the Baudouin test have been added to the Order to simplify it.
- (3) There is no change in quality standards and other requirements for vanaspati except that percentage of unsaponifiable matter has been raised from 1.25 per cent to 1.50 per cent.
- (4) The refined vegetable oils specified under sub-clause 2(a) of Schedule I, shall conform to the standards of quality prescribed under item A.17.16 of Appendix B to the Prevention of Food Adulteration Rules, 1955 or under part I of the Third Schedule to the Solvent-Extracted Oil, De-oiled Meal and Edible Flour (Control) Order, 1967.
- (5) Bakery shortening shall conform in all respects to the standards of quality and other requirements as specified for vanaspati except that (i) melting point shall not be more than 41° C (subject to permission being obtained whenever the melting point is higher than 37° C and (ii) may contain added mono-glycerides and diglycerides as emulsifying agent.
- (6) Manufacture of margarine shall contain a mixture of vanaspati and refined vegetable oils as specified in 4(a) of Schedule III provided that the content of refined sesame oil in margarine shall not be less than 5.0 per cent by weight, but sufficient to ensure that the separated fat conforms to the specification for Baudouin test prescribed under clause (10). The refined vegetable oil for use in the manufacture of margarine shall be conforming to the standards of quality as stated in (4) above. The product shall not contain less than 80.0 per of vanaspati or a mixture of vanaspati and refined vegetable oils having moisture content not less than 14.0 per cent, and not more than 16.0 per cent by weight. No colouring or flavouring matter or any matter deleterious to health are to be added. Final product should obtain melting point from 37° C to 41° C. The Baudouin test reading on separated fat should not be less than 2.5 units as against 2.0 units in vanaspati and similarly vitamin A content shall not be less than 30 international units as against 25 international units per gramme in the case of vanaspati.
4. Subject to the above, the existing quality standards for any variety of vegetable oil product, along with the proviso for manufacture of special quality product, i.e., not conforming to one or more of the prescribed standards for export, industrial use or any other such special purpose with the prior permission of the Vegetable Oil Products Controller, remain unchanged.
5. It may please be noted that these quality standards and requirements, being mandatory under the law, will necessarily have to be complied with under all circumstances, except for exemption or relaxation from the requirements, as provided in the Order, with the permission of the Vegetable Oil Products Controller. Any deviation from the quality standards and requirements specified in Schedule I, II and III will constitute an infringement of the Order, and render the factory liable to penal action.

6. Please acknowledge receipt of this circular.

APPENDIX

[See First Schedule, para 2, clause (7), Second Schedule, para 2, clause (i), and Third Schedule, para 2 clause (10)]

PROCEDURES FOR (1) DETERMINATION OF MELTING POINT BY THE CAPILLARY SLIP METHOD AND (2) THE BAUDOUIN TEST

I—THE CAPILLARY SLIP METHOD FOR DETERMINATION OF MELTING POINT

1. Apparatus:

* (1) Melting point tubes.—Thin-walled, uniformly-board capillary glass tubes, open at both ends and with the following dimensions:—

- (a) Length: 50 to 60 mm;
- (b) Inside diameter: 0.8 to 1.1 mm;
- (c) Outside diameter: 1.2 to 1.5 mm.

(2) Thermometer.—Centigrade, with 0.2° sub-divisions and a suitable range. The thermometer should be checked against a standard thermometer which has been calibrated and certified by the National Physical Laboratory, New Delhi.

(3) Beaker.—With a side-tube heating arrangement.

(4) Water-bath.—Maintained at 15-17° C.

(5) Heat Source.—Gas burner or spirit lamp.

2. Procedure:

(1) Melt the sample of the vegetable oil product (Vanaspati or bakery shortening or the separated fat in the case of margarine) completely and mix it well at a temperature of about 50°C.

(2) (i) Insert the melting point tube (which should be thoroughly cleaned and dried before use) into the molten product so that a column of the product, about 10 mm long, is forced into it.

(ii) Allow the sample in the tube to just set, by keeping the tube in a horizontal position during winter: during summer, the tube may be put on a perforated metal tray, which is so placed inside the water bath (at 15-17°C) that the bottom of the tray just touches the water.

(iii) Then place the tube in a test-tube immersed in water at 15-17°C for one hour.

(3) (i) Remove the melting point tube and attach it with a rubber band or any other suitable means to the thermometer so that the lower end of the melting point tube is even with the bottom of the bulb of the thermometer.

(ii) Pour water at about 20° C into the beaker (with side-tube heating arrangement) and suspend the thermometer in the centre of the beaker so that the lower end of the sample column is 30 mm below the surface of water. Heat the side-tube of the apparatus gently, so that the temperature of water increases slowly at the rate of 2° C per minute till the temperature reaches 30°C and then after at the rate of 0.5° C per minute.

(iii) Note the temperature of the water when the sample column commences to rise in the tube which is the melting point of the sample.

II—THE BAUDOUIN TEST:

1. Reagents:

- (1) Refined groundnut oil of light colour, showing a negative Baudouin Test.

(2) Concentrated hydrochloric acid (A.R.), sp.gr. 1.19.

(3) Furfural solution—2 per cent solution (v/v) of furfural (distilled within 24 hours prior to the test) in rectified spirit.

(4) Dilute hydrochloric acid (C.P.), sp. gr. 1.125.

2. Procedure:

(1) Melt the sample of the vegetable oil product (Vanaspati or bakery shortening or the separated fat in the case of margarine) completely and mix it well at a temperature of about 50°C.

(2) Before carrying out the test, check for the presence of colouring matters which are chromogenic in the presence of hydrochloric acid, as follows:—

(a) shake 10 ml. of the melted vegetable oil product with 10 ml. of concentrated hydrochloric acid. Note if any red colour develops in the aqueous layer.

(b) If a red colour develops in the aqueous layer, shake 15 ml. of the melted vegetable oil product in a separating funnel for half a minute with 15 ml. of dilute hydrochloric acid. During the treatment, do not permit the temperature of the contents of the separating funnel to exceed that necessary to keep the sample in liquid condition. Draw off the red acid layer which collects at the bottom of the funnel and repeat the process until no further colouration takes place.

(3) The Baudouin test shall then be carried out as follows:—

(i) Dilute 10 ml of the melted vegetable oil product original sample, if no red colour develops on checking as at 2(a), or after complete removal of the hydrochloric acid layer as at 2(b) with 40 ml. of refined groundnut oil.

(ii) Take 5 ml of this mixture in a 25 ml measuring cylinder with glass stopper and add 5 ml of concentrated hydrochloric acid.

(iii) Add 0.4 ml of the furfural solution, shake vigorously for 2 minutes, and allow to stand for 5 minutes.

(iv) Transfer the contents of the measuring cylinder to a separating funnel and decant the acid layer through a wet filter paper into a cleaned (with carbon tetrachloride) and dried 1 cm Lovibond cell.

(v) place the cell in position in a Lovibond Tintometer and viewing through the eye-piece of the instrument, match the colour shade of the filtrate with the appropriate combination of red and yellow slides. The colour, which is recorded in terms of red units only (correct to one place of decimals) should be read within 12 minutes of the addition of furfural solution.

(vi) Perform a blank experiment using 5 ml of refined groundnut oil in place of the mixture at (i), and determine the colour as at (v).

(vii) The Baudouin test reading of the sample is the colour reading given by the sample [as at (v)], less that given by the blank [as at (vi)].
